Jonathan Weiler is a professor of Global Studies at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, where he received his Ph. D. in political science in 1999.

He has published two books. The first, Human Rights in Russia: A Darker Side of Reform, was published in 2004 by Lynne Rienner Publishers. The second, Authoritarianism and Polarization in American Politics and co-authored with Marc Hetherington, was published by Cambridge University Press in 2009.

Weiler has written extensively about politics and sports and is currently a contributing writer to the Huffington Post.

For the past five years, he has spoken to synagogues and other Jewish community groups around the state of North Carolina on a variety of Jewish-themed topics, including Jews in Russia, Jews and American Politics and Jews in sports. In addition, he leads a program each Spring at UNC Hillel on Israel awareness.
